BANK STATEMENT WAS FAIR

SPECULATORS LOOKING INTO THE FUTURE.

New York, Feb. 27 .- Today's stock market was almost idle and the drift of prices was listless in the extreme and totally insignificant. Yesterday's setback to the rally which occurred on Thursday discouraged the traders from attempting to move prices and today's rading indicated that the market is awaiting some new development to give an initiative to prices. The fact that another decision day of the supreme court is imminent, with a decision in the Northern Securities case possibly to be handed down, aggravated the dullness. The beginning of the Paris stock market settlement is another motive for a waiting attitude in the securities market. The London market was practically stagnant in response to this influence. Pennsylvania's response to the annual report was an advance of 1/3 and Reading closed unchanged in spite of the heavy decrease in the net earnings for January. The bank statement revealed a larger gain in cash than indicated by the preliminary estimates, but speculative sentiment would be more encouraged were there evidence of a more active use of money in business. The decrease in loans was not clearly explained, unless by a report that some of the clearing house banks have intimated to trust companies their distinctionation to carry heavy deposits at a 2 per cent basis. The market closed almost stagnant but easy and at small losses. Total sales of bonds, par value, $10,000. of the heavy decrease in the net earn-

Weekly Review. The tone of the stock market during the week has been hesitating and irregular, Thursday's sharp recovery serving to bring prices back almost exactly to where they left off on Saturday last. Conditions affecting values have not perceptibly changed, the influences which have depressed prices remaining in force. The market, however, has shown signs of being oversold, and the day-by-day traders have been keenly shown signs of being oversold, and the day-by-day traders have been keenly alive to signs that the decline in prices had reached a point sufficient to offset the conditions which brought it about. The borrowing demand for stocks on the stock exchange showed the building up of a considerable short interest where demand to cover contracts might be relied upon to effect a rally in prices whenever conclusive evidence in prices whenever conclusive evidence should appear that the genuine selling had decreased so far as to promise no hope of a further decline. The foreign situation has had a dominating influence upon the domestic stock market and the troubled markets abroad have kept alive the depression here. It is clear that the foreign stock markets had not prepared themselves adequately for the outbreak of hostilities between Russia and Janan the continen. ly for the outbreak of hostilities between Russia and Japan, the continental bourses especially showing that strong hope was felt, up to the outbreak of hostilities that a peaceful outcome would be secured. The violent decline in the Russian industrial and government securities which are held in a great volume both in France and Germany involved heavy losses and forced liquidation in other securities for which there was a readier market. conspicuous in this class are American securities, and the amount of these which have come home to be sold effectually refuted the contention that foreign markets had been stripped of American securities during the boom of the last few years.

Foreign Failures.

The week's failures in foreign bank-ing circles and the money requirements to be met have affected the local marto be met have affected the local market for exchange and have helped to lift it toward the gold export point. Reports have been current that the Russian government was preparing to draw its heavy balances with some of the great banks of western Europe. The dread of entanglement of other powers in the far eastern quarrel or in the Balkans has been an additional disturbing element in all of the world's markets and has been an important influence on the wheat market. The nervous condition of our stock market Tuesday, which the supreme court was in session and the possibility that a decision in the Northern Securities case was hanging over the market, was was in session and the possibility that a decision in the Northern Securities case was hanging over the market, was a proof of the unsettling influence which that market still has and the likelihood of recurring nervousness on the decision day of the court until the case is finally disposed of. It is evident that the decision, when handed down, whatever may be its tenor, will relieve the market from one repressive influence. The declining tendency of railroad earnings has continued and the stock market is inclined to wait for better weather conditions for proof of the contention that snow blockades and impaired operating efficiency from extreme cold weather are responsible for all decline. The progres of the war over grain rates, both on western lines and on the trunk lines, is on account of anxiety over future traffic. The bitterness of the competition for these future contracts throws some or these future contracts throws some doubts upon the claims of railroad of-ficials of confidence in the maintenance of the volume of traffic. The market of the volume of trains. The market is considering the necessity of an adjustment also to a possible great strike in the soft coal regions, owing to the radical difference diclosed in the claims of the miners for an increase in wages and of the operators for the necessity

Call Money Easy.

Money on call is extremely easy, largely owing to the almost stagnant stock speculation, but offerings of time loans have become less abundant with the hardening of the exchange mar-ket. The languid demand for money outside of corporation and rairoad hor-rowing and the falling off in the vol-ume of bank clearings are regarded with some misgiving as possible indi-cations of decreased business activity. The prospect of delay in the settle-ment of the Panama canal payments will discreme alone already effected tion, but has caused no fear of embar-rassment thus far. The continued lack of moisture in the southwestern wheat belt has been a subject of attention, but without appreciable effect thus far on prices of stocks.

noticeable feature in the early situation was the absence of any influential buying. The market lacked its usual support, the reinstatement of big lines previously sold out. The seeming reason was that most of the large traders were disposed to await developments over Sunday. Another factor in discouraging general buying early was for the purpose of enabling the purchase of July wheat at lower prices. As the session was nearing the close there was a sudden outbreak of spectacular selling of May. The heavy orders were generally supposed to be for the account of the principal long. The general selling movement thus suddenly inaugurated resulted quickly in a severe slump in the price of the May option. From around 1.05. May declined to 1.01%. Many stop-loss orders came out accelerating the decline. On a partial cessation of the selling a large portion of the loss was recovered within the last few minutes of trading. Closing figures on May showed a net loss for the day of 1½ at 1.03%. July was down at 96%.

Lower cables and weakness in wheat caused an easier feeling in corn. May closed 1½ lower at 35%. July closed as shade lower at 55½, 55%.

The feature in oats was the comparative strength of the market in the face of the weakness in wheat. May closed 1½ lower at 45½. July closed 1½ lower at 45½. July closed 1½ lower at 41%.

In provisions trading centered in pork, Local packers were the principal huver.

The Bank Statement. New York, Feb. 27.—The statement of verages of the clearing house banks of his city for the five days of this week Specie, $217.351,700; increase, $3.745,000. Reserve, $28,120,300; fncrease, $4,617,300. Reserve required, $256,980,100; decrease, 6,300.

Ex United States deposits, $41,840,675; increase, $4,847,90.

The Financier says: One feature of the official statement of the New York associated banks last week was the gain of $4,617,390 in cash, an amount $58,900 greater than that which was estimated from the traceable movements of money during the week, and the total holdings are now the highest ever reported. Another feature was the high record for specie holdings by the banks, these being $21,200,090 larger than the highest previous amount, which was $155,390,400, Feb. 2, 1891. Still another feature was the new high record for the year in surplus reserve. The discrepancy between the increase in cash as officially reported and that which was estimated was probably due to the average for one day of a transfer hither of $625,000 gold from San Francisco on Friday, and also to the return of some of the money which was sent to Baltimore a fortnight ago, which return movement was unrecorded by the sent to Baltimore a fortnight ago, which return movement was unrecorded in the estimates.

The deposits were decreased by the comparatively small sum of $105,200, and the required reserve was thereby reduced by $25,300. This amount added to the increase in cash made $4,643,000 as the gain in surplus reserve to $22,150,290. Computed upon the basis of deposits, less those of $33,761,300 public funds, the surplus is $11,840,675. It is noteworthy that the government deposits increased during the week by $764,400, making $1,885,540 since the first week in February, reflecting the concentration in the specially designated depositories at New York of deposits which have already been withdrawn from the country institutions in anticipation of the call for the surrender of 20 per cent of the public funds. Loans decreased $1.-22,700 last week, making a reduction of $9,350,800 in the fortnight, indicating the light inquiry for stock exchange requirements and the partial satisfaction of the demand from syndicate and corporation borrowers. The circulation decreased $325,350.

ments and the partial satisfaction of the demand from syndicate and corporation borrowers. The circulation decreased $325,390.

The statement showed a good proof, the sum of the decrease in loans and in deposits being $22,400 tess than the increase in cash. The daily average of clearings for the five days was $178,000,000, or the same as for the six days of the previous week. The clearings on Saturday, reflecting Priday's business were $176,833,917, or below the average. The statement was made upon rising averages for cash, and therefore this week's return should show an increase in this item. But with the inquiry for loans, small as it is now, and is likely to be in the near future, increases in cash tend to intensify the monetary congestion. Comparisons of changes in loans show that six banks reduced this item by $2,390,000 net.
